--It's all about mutual help and support--

The National Health Insurance
The National Health Insurance (NHI) program is intended for every resident of Japan who is not enrolled in an Employee Health Insurance program.

The following persons are eligible to join NHI:

- Self-employed persons such as shop owners, etc.
- Persons engaged in the agriculture or fisheries industries
- Part-time workers who are not covered by the Employee Health Insurance program
- Persons who have retired and withdrawn from the Employee Health Insurance program
- Foreign residents who have been issued a Certificate of Registration and who have permission to live in Japan for a period of one year or more
The NHI program guarantees medical coverage for everyone enrolled.

The National Health Insurance (NHI) program is designed to ensure that each and every person can have peace of mind about medical care. Under the program, insured parties pay just 10-30% up from at medical institutions. Everyone makes an equitable contribution, and everyone receives the medical care they need in the unexpected event of illness or injury.
Within 14 days of becoming ineligible for the Employee Health Insurance or other insurance.

If you submit your application at your local municipal office within 14 days of the termination of employment with a company (or other relevant changes in circumstances), NHI program coverage begins from the time you left the company.

Example: You retired in May, but neglect to submit your application until the end of August. You are required to pay your insurance premiums back-dated to the end of May, when you became eligible for the NHI program. However, note that you are also responsible for the full cost of any medical costs incurred from the date you left your employment through the date you enrolled in the NHI program.

- You must pay all insurance premiums retroactive to May.
- You are responsible for all medical expenses incurred during this period.
Be sure to pay your insurance premiums on time

There are cases where the period of validity of the National Health Insurance Certificate may be shortened if you fail to pay your insurance premiums by the specified date, except where you have a valid reason for such a delay. Further, in cases where you fail to pay your premium for a period of one year, you may be temporarily responsible for all medical costs.

If you cannot pay your premium for any reason, it may be reduced or you may be exempted from paying it. You may also be permitted to pay your premium in installments. Please do not allow your premium to go unpaid. If necessary, consult the National Health Insurance Section of your nearest municipal government office without delay.
