

Your computer is being Targeted!!!

Your computer can be used as a springboard for cyber attacks

As the number of *DDoS attacks and targeted e-mails on the Japanese government is on the rise, its classified information and computer systems are exposed to more and more threats of cyber attacks.

*A DDoS attack is an attempt to make a computer service unavailable by sending a huge amount of data simultaneously.

To prevent malware infection

- 1 Update your OS, web browser, and other software.
- 2 Update your antivirus software and run a virus check on all data in your computer regularly.
- 3 Don't open files attached to e-mails unnecessarily.
- 4 Don't open the links posted on a bulletin board that allows anonymous posting or URLs embedded in e-mails unnecessarily.
- 5 Don't run a program made by an unknown person unnecessarily.